DISCUSS THE SUPREME COURT YEAR IN REVIEW WITH NATIONAL PUBLIC RADIO'S "JUSTICE TALKING" AT THE NATIONAL CONSTITUTION CENTER

PHILADELPHIA, PA (June 27, 2006) – On Wednesday, July 12, 2006 from 5:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m., become part of a live studio audience and watch as a star-studded lineup of Supreme Court scholars and commentators discuss the Court's previous term during a taping of NPR's "Justice Talking," co-sponsored by the National Constitution Center. Admission is free, but reservations are required and may be made by calling 215.573.8919.

This past Supreme Court term raised a number of questions: Does the First Amendment protect a public employee's job-related speech? Do enemy combatants held at Guantanamo Bay have the right to due process protections and, if so, which ones? Is it constitutional to search private residences when one resident consents and the other objects? The face of the Supreme Court also changed dramatically this term with the addition of Chief Justice John Roberts and Justice Samuel Alito, who replaced Chief Justice William Rehnquist and Justice Sandra Day O'Connor, respectively.

Panelists include USA Today Supreme Court reporter Joan Biskupic; Richard Epstein, Professor of Law at the University of Chicago Law School; Stanley Morrison Professor of Law and former Dean of Stanford Law School, Kathleen Sullivan.

"Justice Talking" is an award-winning public radio program produced at University of Pennsylvania's Annenberg Public Policy Center and distributed by NPR. It is heard on 100 stations across the country. Host Margot Adler leads the nation's top advocates in informative, entertaining discussions of today's headline issues.

ADD ONE/JUSTICE TALKING

Opened on July 4, 2003, the National Constitution Center is a museum, an education center, and a forum for debate on constitutional issues. The museum dramatically tells the story of the Constitution from Revolutionary times to the present through more than 100 interactive, multimedia exhibits, film, photographs, text, sculpture and artifacts, and features a powerful, award-winning theatrical performance, "Freedom Rising". The Center also houses the Annenberg Center for Education and Outreach, which serves as the hub for national constitutional education and debates, and is a partner of NPR's "Justice Talking," a program of the Annenberg Public Policy Center. Also, serving as a nonpartisan forum for constitutional discourse, the Center presents – without endorsement – programs that contain diverse viewpoints on a broad range of issues. For more information, call 215.409.6600 or visit www.constitutioncenter.org.
