NATIONAL CONSTITUTION CENTER UNVEILS NEWSEUM TRAVELING EXHIBIT OF KENNEDY FAMILY PHOTOGRAPHY

Philadelphia (February 12, 2015) – On Friday, February 13, 2015, the National Constitution Center will unveil Creating Camelot: The Kennedy Photography of Jacques Lowe, a traveling exhibit from the Newseum showcasing unforgettable images of public and private moments taken by John F. Kennedy's personal photographer, Jacques Lowe.

The exhibit, which will be on display at the National Constitution Center through September 7, 2015, features more than 70 photographs and iconic images of President Kennedy, his wife, Jacqueline, and their children, John Jr. and Caroline. A large touch-screen monitor allows visitors to view more than two dozen of Lowe's original contact sheets, including the editing marks that indicate the images he selected for publication in various newspapers and magazines. The exhibit also includes an original film about Jacques Lowe and the Kennedy family. Creating Camelot was developed by the Newseum in collaboration with the Jacques Lowe Estate.

Lowe was Kennedy's personal photographer from 1958 through his early years in the White House. The carefully crafted photos captured the public's imagination and became an important political tactic. Through his intimate photography and unprecedented access to the First Family, Lowe helped create the legend of the Kennedy presidency known as "Camelot."

The National Constitution Center is located at 525 Arch Street on Philadelphia's Independence Mall. The Center is open 9:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, until 6:00 p.m. on Saturday and from Noon to 5:00 p.m. on Sunday.
