NATIONAL CONSTITUTION CENTER NAMES JENNY PARKER MCCLOSKEY VICE PRESIDENT OF COMMUNICATIONS

Philadelphia (June 11, 2015) – The National Constitution Center announced today that Jenny Parker McCloskey has been named vice president of communications. She will oversee all media relations and external communications for the Center.

“Jenny is an accomplished communicator with valuable national media experience and a keen eye for news,” said the National Constitution Center’s president and CEO, Jeffrey Rosen. “Her broadcast news background and brand development expertise will be invaluable as the National Constitution Center continues to expand its programming and audiences for constitutional education and debate across the region and around the country, on every media platform.”

Before joining the National Constitution Center, McCloskey served as a consultant for organizations including Conservation International, The Nature Conservancy, and CBS This Morning, where she worked on the launch of the broadcast in 2012. Her background also includes serving as deputy director of communications for Fortune magazine, where she oversaw the communications strategy for editorial, business and conference operations. Before that, she was the public relations director of New York magazine, where she developed strategies that significantly increased radio, television and print coverage of the magazine. Earlier, McCloskey was the senior press representative for ABC News, where she created and executed publicity campaigns for ABC News’ primetime programming.

She resides in Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania.

About the National Constitution Center

The National Constitution Center in Philadelphia inspires active citizenship as the only place where people across America and around the world can come together to learn about, debate, and celebrate the greatest vision of human freedom in history, the U.S. Constitution. We serve as America’s leading platform for constitutional educational and debate, fulfilling our Congressional charter “to disseminate information about the U.S. Constitution on a non-partisan basis.” As the Museum of We the People, we bring the United States Constitution to life for visitors of all ages through interactive programs and exhibits. As America’s Town Hall, we bring the leading conservative and liberal thought leaders together to debate the Constitution on all media platforms. As a center for Civic Education, we deliver the best educational programs and online resources that inspire, excite, and engage citizens about the U.S. Constitution. For more information, call 215-409-6700 or visit constitutioncenter.org.
