PHILADELPHIA’S STRIPES AND STARS FESTIVAL COMMEMORATES
JOINT BIRTHDAYS OF THE U.S. FLAG AND ARMY

Daylong festival to take place on Tuesday, June 14, 2016 in Philadelphia’s Historic District

National Constitution Center’s All New Sidney Kimmel Theater Reopens Freedom Rising

Philadelphia, PA (June 8, 2016) – From star-spangled banners to five-star generals, Philadelphia celebrates the shared birthday of two of our country’s greatest institutions—the American flag and the U.S. Army. This year’s Stripes and Stars Festival will take place on Tuesday, June 14, 2016 at locations throughout Independence National Historical Park and Historic Philadelphia, including Independence Hall, Betsy Ross House, and the National Constitution Center, which will feature $5 admission, courtesy of Macy’s. Events include the grand reopening of Freedom Rising in the all new Sidney Kimmel Theater, flag raising ceremonies, a patriotic parade led by the U.S. Army Colonial Fife and Drum Corps, displays and demonstrations of U.S. Army equipment, giant flag folding demonstrations, and a moving naturalization ceremony.

Special Events
Sidney Kimmel Theater Presents Freedom Rising
National Constitution Center, 525 Arch Street, every half hour beginning at 9:30 a.m.
The National Constitution Center’s Sidney Kimmel Theater, presenting Philadelphia’s longest running show, Freedom Rising, will reopen after a six month long, $2 million renovation. Performances begin at 9:30 a.m. and run every half hour until 4 p.m.

Origins of U.S. Flag and U.S. Army Commemorations
Flag Day commemorates the adoption of the flag of the United States, which happened on June 14, 1777 by resolution of the Second Continental Congress. In 1916, President Woodrow Wilson issued a proclamation calling for an official national Flag Day observance. Then in 1949, President Harry S. Truman signed an Act of Congress designating the 14th day of June every year as National Flag Day. The United States Army also celebrates its birthday on this date; Congress authorized “the American Continental Army” on June 14, 1775.

About the Philadelphia Flag Day Association

The Philadelphia Flag Day Association (PFDA) was founded in 1934 as a patriotic nonprofit to promote the celebration of Flag Day and respect for the United States Flag – remaining the nation’s oldest continually operating organization commemorating Flag Day. Over its 82-year history, PFDA has stayed true to its mission, but expanded its reach to invite the Betsy Ross House, Independence National Historic Park, and, more recently, the National Constitution Center and City of Philadelphia to celebrate both Flag Day and the Birth of the US Army.

PFDA funds and produces a number of educational outreach programs about the Nation’s Flag and cosponsors, with the City’s Fire Department, Philadelphia’s official 9/11 commemoration. In 2007, PFDA established its Collection of Historic American Flags and Banners, a growing assemblage of almost 200 historic American flags, banners, and related items – portions of which have been displayed throughout the region. PFDA’s additional flag collections include those of 9/11 and a Support Our Troops collection with flags/banners from the 1st and 2nd Gulf Wars, War in Afghanistan, and pieces expressing general support for the United States Military.
