National Constitution Center 2015 Year-End Giving
The National Constitution Center relies significantly on your generous support. In this increasingly polarized age, our nonpartisan mission to bring people together of all ages, backgrounds, and perspectives to learn about, debate, and celebrate the U.S. Constitution is more important than ever. Your support and participation in our mission will help ensure that 2016 is another remarkable year.

With the end of the year approaching, the following instructions and information about giving to the National Constitution Center may be helpful to you. The National Constitution Center does not provide legal, tax or financial advice. We encourage you to consult with your professional tax advisor regarding your particular situation.

CHARITABLE IRA ROLLOVER FOR 2015
On December 18, Congress enacted a permanent extension of the IRA Charitable Rollover. The provision allows individuals age 70½ or older to make tax-free gifts totaling up to $100,000 from a traditional IRA account directly to charities like The National Constitution Center, provided they are completed by December 31. If your spouse has IRA accounts, you may each make gifts of up to $100,000 from these accounts.

While you cannot claim an income tax charitable deduction for an IRA charitable rollover, this distribution from your IRA counts toward your minimum required distribution for the account and does not trigger income tax for you. It is a tax-free transfer from the IRA account directly to The National Constitution Center.

In order to complete an IRA Charitable Rollover for 2015, please contact your IRA provider for exact instructions. Such transactions usually take a few weeks, but the provider should be able to fast-track such a transaction because Congress and the President acted so late this year.

If you need additional assistance, please contact our office. If you do plan to complete an IRA Charitable Rollover for The National Constitution Center, please let us know so that we can look for it. Thank you for considering a gift to support our work this year. Your dedication and support are sincerely appreciated.
